Among Other Things He Sees the Possible Organization of a New Party on Socialistic Theories

(Scripps-McRae Press Association.) New York, April 22.—Henry Watter-son, the Louisville editor, just back after spending the winter in southern Europe, has named Gov. Hughes as next president, and urged President Roosevelt to the background, unless he chooses to run again in 1912, and gave Bryan the next Democratic nomination without opposition.

GOLDFIELD MINERS WIN BIG VICTORY

Closed Shop, 8-Hour Day and Jurisdiction Over Workers is Granted by Owners Association

Goldfield, Nev., April 22.—At a special meeting of the Goldfield Miners' Union the miners voted to accept terms of settlement in the pending labor troubles. In order to establish definite understanding between the Western Federation of Miners Local No. 220 and the miners and operators of the Goldfield mining district it is agreed that mining and milling operations will be resumed under the following terms:

PREACHER WOULD HAVE CHURCHES PAY TAXES

Believes it Wrong to Make Society Carry Burdens of Religion in Which it Does Not Believe

W. H. MacPherson, minister of the People's Church, 3737 Avenue L, South Chicago, advised his congregation last night on the subject of "Tainted Money," and in the course of his remarks declared that not until the church refused to be benefited by free fire and police protection, arranged partly paid for by saloon license money, will they have any right to talk about tainted money.

CHILIANS PANIC WORSE

Volcano Eruption Causes Universal Terror Among All Classes of Nations

Valparaiso, April 22.—The panic in southern Chile caused by the eruption of the Puyehue volcano is growing worse hourly. The volcano is in full eruption and rests of the neighborhood that will be the whole region is to be devastated by the lava flow, are fleeing for their lives. Several earthquake shocks which have been felt as far northward as Santiago have added to the terror of the people. Forest fires which were started several days ago by the hot ashes and cinders from the volcano are still burning. Thousands of acres have been burned over. Hundreds of cattle have been destroyed and many farms burned. Arrangements have been made by the government to send relief supplies to the volcano sufferers.

GAUDY PREMIUMS ARE LURES FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Minister Makes Startling Charge and Will Furnish Proof to Police

Girls less than 14 years old are lured into certain dance halls of Chicago by means of premiums offered for their attendance. Dr. Melbourne P. Boynton made this statement in a sermon at the Lexington Avenue Baptist Church yesterday. Rings and other trinkets and even sums of money are being offered to the girls by which children have been attracted to these vicious places. "I have circulars in hand," said Dr. Boynton, "that offer prizes to children that will attend the dances. One set of prizes was offered to girls under 14 years of age. These girls are lured into dance halls by the glittering of gold and there learn to drink and dance with strangers."

WIDE SEARCH FOR GIRL

Ypsilanti, Mich., April 22.—One thousand people swarmed the banks of the Huron River here Sunday and assisted in a vain search for the body of Lora Bryant, the normal school student who mysteriously disappeared two weeks ago. The dam had been opened and the river had allowed to run dry, but no trace of the girl was found.

HOW IT WORKS?

With his savings of thirty-five years tied up in the Jennings Day and Night Safety Deposit Vault Co., Joseph Mueller who was manager of that department, faces unpleasant prospects. He worked as tailor for over a third of a century and was induced by Jennings to invest $5,000 in the stock of the concern. Jennings, he declares, put him off from time to time with promises to redeem the stock he purchased, Jennings having said he wanted it merely temporarily to tide him over his financial shoals.

Now, Mueller has brought suit, but has little prospect of getting back all he put into the institution. He says he thinks Jennings has secreted his property. It is but another of the operations of the system. Men work and save, go into "business" and lose their fortune in their old age. Observe and see how often this occurs. Business men keep on playing the game, when they grow old and are fleeced by clever schemers.

PARIS ON VERGE OF A TERRIBLE FAMINE

Snail Shortage Fills Epicureans with Dismay—Source of Supply is Fast Failing

(Scripps-McRae Press Association.) Paris, April 22.—Paris is menaced with a deprivation of edible snails. The department of Yonne, the principal source of the delicacy, is demanding protection from the snail hunters, who have taken so many that the supply is falling. Houses at Auxerre, which used to send millions of snails to Paris, are obliged to draw supplies from Switzerland and the department of Isere.

BRUTAL WHITE BOYS SLAY POOR NEGRO GIRL AS LARK

GOV. MAGOON CENSURED FOR ALLEGED COLLUSION

Cubans Accuse Him of Being Party to Graft System in Church Property Sales

Havana, April 22.—American graft methods are alleged to have been introduced in Havana. Governor Magoon is charged in some quarters with being a party to the alleged collusion between church property for government purposes, and the allegation is maintained that high American officials are to receive a bonus of $400,000. Strange to say, this is the amount certain persons tried to force the church to pay to get an appropriation recommended by President Palma through the last Cuban congress, which failed.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT HELD ON GRAVE CHARGE

(Scripps-McRae Press Association.) Sastavia, O., April 22.—An indictment was returned today against Professor Clarence Meeker, 23 superintendent of the Monroe Township public schools, charging him with criminal assault on Miss Fern Corbin, the 14-year-old daughter of W. P. Corbin, one of his pupils.

London, April 22.—A report from Tokyo says that the steamer Mongolian is ashore on the Japanese coast. She went aground in trying to avoid a collision with another vessel.

The Modern "Dun" Cow

According to ancient legend there once roamed through Ireland a kind-hearted bovine, known as the "Dun cow." She was a very docile animal and readily supplied milk to everyone that desired it. The old cow took great pride in furnishing food for the needy, and it was boasted that she could fill any vessel in the land. One day, however, an old witch, rather plucked at the happiness and contentment of the people, conceived the idea of controlling their food supply. Taking a sieve, she sat down beside the "Dun" cow and began milking her. The old cow at first, thinking she was doing good for the needy, submitted to the operation very pleasantly, but after looking time and again and finding the sieve as empty as at first, she finally rebelled and proceeded to kick the old witch sky-high over a nearby precipice, from whence she never returned.

INSPIRED WHITE HOUSE STORY SAYS BONAPART WILL SAVE BORAH

The following dispatch was sent from Washington last night. It is "inspired," which means that Roosevelt sanctions it and authorized its publication: Washington, D.C., April 22.—There is reason to believe that Attorney General Bonaparte will direct the quashing of the indictment found by the federal grand jury at Boise, Idaho, against United States Senator William E. Borah of that state. According to official information which has reached Washington, government officers who have investigated the land frauds with which Senator Borah is alleged to have been connected, are inclined to believe that a serious mistake has been made in this case. No proof of a conclusive character was offered against the senator and the impression exists that he is the victim of politics.

UNEMPLOYED STORM HOUSE OF COMMONS

Men Who Gave Lives to Gun Making for Britain Now Poverty Stricken; Received by Premier (Special to Chicago Daily Socialist.) London, April 22.—Ghastly and grewsome scenes were witnessed by Londoners last night when thousands of unemployed, ranging from mere children to silver-haired men, marched a distance of eight miles to the house of commons to lay their grievances before Premier Campbell-Bannerman. The cry of the unemployed, who have been discharged from the Woolwich arsenal as a result of the agitation for the reducing of military expenses. A large portion of these men have given away 30 or more years of their life to the British government in producing guns and other instruments of murder. The procession was augmented by printers and other tradesmen and laborers. While there was absolutely no disorder on the part of the marchers, ill-feeling was manifest on every face. The cry of the men was accentuated by the fact that the wages paid them were such that during a lifetime of work for the government they have not been able to save enough to keep them a reasonable time until they might be able to find other employment. When the procession reached the house of commons a committee was appointed to speak to the premier. The premier received this deputation, which was introduced by William Crooke, member of the house of commons, in his private room, War Secretary Haldane and Baron Tweedmouth, first lord of the admiralty, being present. The premier sought to smooth the affair over, and after making promises to alleviate the suffering of the unemployed, succeeded in inducing the men to return to their homes and wait for further action by the government.

PUBLIC PRINTER REMOVES MIRRORS FROM OFFICE

Young Women Employes Took Too Much of "Open Shop" Time to "Primp."

SHOW GIRLS MUST DANCE 30 OR 40 TIMES A DAY

In the recent attack made by the Chicago Tribune upon the 5-cent theaters in this city the most important part of the question was entirely neglected. What the public needs to know is that the employes, operators of moving picture machines, soubrettes, ballad singers, dancers, pianists, et al., are required to give as high as from 30 to 40 snugs on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, without extra compensation. The "turn" the soubrette gives consists usually of a topical song, together with either a "buck and wing" dance or a skirt dance. When one considers for a moment the exhaustion of waltzing for five-minute intermissions, for three hours, he can readily understand the physical strain upon a girl or woman who is required to dance and sing almost 12 continuous hours with scarcely any intermission. It must be remembered that no time is allowed for meals in many of these places. In one of these places of amusement in State street the performance begins at 5 o'clock in the morning. The character of the conditions under which human beings have to work enters into this 5-cent theater discussion. Railway servants in England are supposed to receive $1,500,000 a year in tips.

REPRESENTATIVES OF 200,000 CHICAGO CITIZENS DENOUNCE ROOSEVELT

"Unwarranted and Demagogic" is Way His Attack on Moyer and Haywood is Styled; Morgan Stirs City Workers

A culture grinning at the sight of blood was the picture drawn of President Roosevelt at the meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday, at which the chief executive was taken to task for his "unwarranted and demagogic" attack upon Moyer and Haywood. The meeting of the federation, which was attended by 500 delegates, representing about 175,000 workmen, was a distinctly anti-Roosevelt affair. Moyer and Haywood again read their previous declaration that in the eyes of the law "all men are innocent until proven guilty." Be it further these resolutions be forwarded to President Roosevelt, William D. Haywood and Charles H. Moyer.

ROOSEVELT BEHIND ALL

"After they have vainly tried to put the Western Federation out of business by force," the speaker declared, "they resorted to other methods. They took up the bait which proved the ruin of many a labor organization. They sought to buy off the leaders, Moyer and Haywood were invited to a banquet, which was given by the mine owners and at which the governor was present. The leaders refused to attend, saying that the mine they would drink with their tyrants would turn to blood."

THE RESOLUTIONS

The resolution adopted by the Chicago Federation of Labor is as follows: "Whereas, His Excellency Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, in a recent interview with newspaper correspondents is reported to have denounced Charles H. Moyer and William D. Haywood as dangerous and undesirable citizens; and "Whereas, this attack on the character of these famous and influential labor officials at this time, when they are about to be tried for their lives because of their devotion to organized labor, is so close to the borderland of cowardly assassination that we cannot draw the line very distinctly; and "Whereas, as this new role of our president is so entirely strange to us that we scarcely recognize him in it, we would most respectfully suggest to

PRESIDENT SCARED--WILL NOT SAVE BORAH, CHARGED WITH LAND THEFT

Washington, D. C., April 22.—The investigation of the alleged illegal and fraudulent land transactions in which Senator William E. Borah of Idaho is said to have been interested and for which he is said to have been indicted will be vigorously continued. The Senator-elect will be prosecuted unless President Roosevelt or Attorney General Bonaparte give positive instructions to the contrary. This is the determination of Norman M. Ruelck, United States attorney for Idaho, who is now here for consultation with administration officials regarding his future course in connection with the Borah land scandal.

RUICK WANTS TO PROSECUTE

The attitude and intention of Ruelck have not been modified or changed by the declaration that Senator-elect Borah has urged the president to interfere and prevent Ruelck from continuing his prosecution. While the United States attorney will say nothing concerning the matter, it is known that he adheres to his original purpose and will proceed unless stopped by his superiors here. District Attorney Ruelck has brought with him all the evidence collected against Senator-elect Borah on which it is proposed to base legal proceedings, which he will lay before the president and attorney general. He will explain his case in detail and the decision as to his future course will then rest with the president and Bonaparte.

FOUR MEN TICKLE ONE POOR, LONE YOUNG WOMAN

She Laughs So Much That Twenty-four Hours Elapse Before She Is Calmed. Regina Ait, 16 years old, pretty and childish, who had been giggling intermittently for 24 hours, was fully recovered from her hysterical attack last night. The cause of her condition was the arrest of four young men who are said to have tickled her under the arms, not knowing what was going to happen. As the girl seemed to be all right again the warrants were null and void. Regina lives at 542 State street with her uncle, who is a tailor, and her aunt. She's always been ticklish. As a child she was tickled by her father, John Struss, who is 25 years old, and his brother, William, who is 32. A butcher named Anthony Slumsky, and another man, began to tickle her under her arms. Regina began to giggle and yell, and finally began to faint. She recovered soon, but she could not stop laughing.

NEW POSTOFFICE SAID TO BE A DEATH TRAP The new postoffice, although it cost $5,000,000, is said to be so unsanitary that conditions are growing acute. This situation was exposed at a meeting of the Postoffice Clerks' Association, when Chairman William F. Collins announced that the sick benefits paid out to the 1,600 employees was far in excess of the aggregate of the year previous.

AMMONIA GUN BURGLAR'S NEW WEAPON FAILS (Scripps-McRae Press Association.) New York, April 22.—Almost blinded from the fumes of an ammonia gun which had been turned on him by a burglar he had caught in the act of robbing his home, Dr. Charles N. B. Camac early today chased the intruder for many blocks and finally saw the burglar in jail. The doctor was awakened by the burglar and grappled with him. The thief seeking to escape turned an ammonia gun on the physician and only a quick duck saved the doctor's eyes. The burglar then ran from the house, pursued by Dr. Camac. After a long chase the doctor finally cornered the burglar and with the assistance of a policeman arrested him.

FINDS COBBLER'S SCHEME TO BURN ASHES IS GOOD Greenville, Ill., April 22.—A satisfactory test of the ashes formula of the Altoona, Pa., cobbler has been made here. The chief engineer of the electric light plant tested the invention on him for himself the other day, finding that it works perfectly. Otto Gerkeles, who made the experiment, said: "I have tried this thing out myself and wish to go upon record as saying that it works exactly as the inventor claims. In my opinion the inventor should be protected and backed up by the Socialists, for the inventor is a capitalist and his friends are the machine shops, who will profit by the invention."

WILL NOT ALLOW TEST OF MRS. EDDY'S POWERS Her Cabinet Adroitly Evades an Issue Raised by the Other Side; Fear She Might Suffer (Scripps-McRae Press Association.) Concord, N. H., April 22.—Members of the Eddy cabinet, headed by Calvin A. Clark, it developed today, have for weeks evaded a test of Mrs. Eddy's mental capacity, although the plan was suggested with a view of saving the founder of the Christian Science church the ordeal of appearing in court. Five judges, according to William E. Chandler, chief counsel for the Eddy relatives in the suit against Free and others, a letter was sent to the opposing counsel suggesting that six witnesses should examine Mrs. Eddy as to her ability to manage her affairs. The "cabinet" has never even deigned to answer the letter.

Heartless Evictions Occur in the Flood Districts of Cincinnati

Cincinnati, O., April 22.--No more heartless evidence of the tyranny of landlordism, absent and present, was ever witnessed even in Ireland or Russia than has been seen here in the poor districts along the river front since the highwater in the winter and early spring.

Hundreds of families who earn a bare existence and live from day to day, with no future prospect and no chance of advancement, up to a few weeks ago occupied the cheap tenements and worse than hovels below high water mark.

The water was higher this winter than it has been in more than a decade and as a result these people were driven out into even greater misery, so soon as the waters receded they moved back into their wrecked quarters and began to clean out the mud and filth which the waters had swept into their living apartments, only to be told that, inasmuch as they had left the premises contrary to the terms of the cut-throat leases, they are required to sign, the leases would be considered by the landlords as terminated.

Raised the Rents.

The landlords announced that the rents had been raised from 10 to 25 per cent. The poor people could not pay the increase and were thrust out into the bleak weather of February, March and early April. They are still being ousted and the suffering is only lessened by the rising temperature.

The landlords, however, were able to put their unfortunate tenants upon the defensive for the sake of harvesting a few more paltry dollars a year from each. It costs money to be on the defensive even when right, and the landlords had taken pains in years past to see that the tenants had no spare funds with which to grow troublesome.

CHRONICLE TO BE THE PROPERTY OF PEDDLERS

Big State Street Merchants Hope to Use It as Club for Other Journals; Keeley Editor

What will be the fate of the Chicago Chronicle? Its owner, John R. Walsh, is under indictment in connection with the looting of three Chicago banks, and it is predicted that he will go to the penitentiary.

His paper, which has been for years one of the best edited newspapers and the strongest reactionary journal in Chicago, is of no value to the Associated Press franchise. It has about 5,000 circulation and loses money by the wagon load.

The department stores of State street have formed a pool and may buy the plant and press rights. The purpose of this is to build up a strong journal for offensive and defensive purposes. The State street crowd is being "held up" by the other newspapers, they say, and advertising. With the Chronicle in the field they expect to be able to have some power to keep down advertising rates.

It Is Time for the People to Entertain a Healthy Contempt of Court

By Joseph Medill Patterson

The people of Chicago ever since 1899 have wanted municipal ownership of street cars. This is proved by the votes of that year and in 1901, 1903, 1905.

If there was a democracy the people could get what they wanted if they had the power to pay for it. Chicago has the power to pay for a street car system.

But there was no specific affirmative provision in the laws of Illinois that Chicago could have a street car system.

Consequently a bill was passed through the state legislature in 1902 giving the city that power.

The attempt in 1900 to pass such a bill failed because street car money was against it.

1902 the bill was passed with difficulty. In fact, physical force was necessary. Physical force was necessary because money—street car money—was promised the leaders of the Republican machine if the bill failed again as in 1900.

In 1903 and in 1905 the people again voted to own their street cars. They now had the RIGHT to do so. (The Lord only knows why they hadn't the "right" to do that all along if they wanted to.)

But in spite of those votes of 1903 and 1905 they don't own the cars yet. Why? Because of the courts.

Judge Grosscup took the Union Traction Company under his protecting wing, went through a little legal prestidigitiation and presto! the people couldn't own their cars on the North and West Sides.

The South Side road profited by Grosscup's muddying of the waters, for the gaping people were trying to settle with both roads at once.

Then there was also the 99-year act. In 1859 the state legislature was bribed by the horse car companies to give them a 99-year franchise in Chicago.

Grosscup, who was then operating the Union Traction cable and electric lines in Chicago, tried the case.

The Yellow Weed of Sleepy Hollow

By Arthur Morrow Lewis

The stage driver was congenially and interestingly drunk. His two horses were evidently accustomed to his being in that condition, for they paid not the slightest attention to his erratic jerking of the reins, but went steadily about their work.

His drunken jocularly found its chief outlet in the repeated expression of his suspicion that the silent old gentleman on the third and last seat was not to be trusted to ride next to a certain lady who was to become a passenger at a point somewhere a little ahead.

To do the old gentleman in question justice, he scarcely seemed to relish his coming proximity to the future passenger. Presently his face cleared as he realized that the threatened lady existed only in the spiritually heated brain of the would-be witty driver.

Our next passenger proved to be a stout old gentleman, with a mysterious package in one hand and a bottle of pickles in the other.

We were traveling from Hobsonville, Ore., to Tillamook City, the capital of Tillamook County, of the same state, and situated on a picturesque bay fed by the waters of the great Pacific.

My principal work, however, was to be done in Tillamook City. All along the road were red, blue and yellow posters, announcing that on the coming Saturday a harvest picnic and barbecue would be held on the race track.

As I had never before attended a barbecue, I was greatly interested, and when the horses walked I made myself acquainted with the particulars.

No wonder that Tillamook County had suddenly become alive and excited. The ranchers along the road regarded me as an object of special interest and politely inquired if I was the gentleman who was "going up against Judge Handley."

Next morning I walked out to the race track, which was to be the scene of all these activities. The most noticeable thing there was the preparation for the barbecue.

It was during this time that I picked up a piece of information that was to do me yeoman service in my coming struggle with Judge Handley.

What will the people do about it? Will they continue to gape? Will they continue to receive as the law of their existence what is decreed by seven little lawyers down in Springfield?

roads and appeared to be much harder and more prolific than the valuable grasses it was displacing.

After the feast everybody gathered in a great crowd on a large grass plot behind the grand stand.

Then Chairman Wolfe introduced the judge. His easy fluency, his excellent language, the military precision with which he marshaled his points, all showed him to be an antagonist of considerable capacity.

The judge began by being rather complimentary. Socialists had at any rate helped men to get out of ruts, etc. Then he drifted gracefully around to the assertion of Socialism's impracticability and complained that I had given no clear account of how it would work and what we intended to do.

It was easy to see, however, that all this was only a preamble to some weightier argument. The easy confidence, the pleasant smile, the introductory style and other more subtle signs, indicated that the judge had something in reserve—a sort of trump card up his sleeve—that he relied upon.

Next morning I walked out to the race track, which was to be the scene of all these activities. The most noticeable thing there was the preparation for the barbecue.

Having impressively stated his main argument, the judge proceeded to display a wealth of illustration, evidently in greater part prepared beforehand, and yet aptly taking points from my speech and skillfully bending them to his purpose.

At last he came to his final illustration, one which he relied upon to clinch the argument and bring the force of his conclusion home to the business and bosoms of his audience.

It was during this time that I picked up a piece of information that was to do me yeoman service in my coming struggle with Judge Handley.

What will the people do about it? Will they continue to gape? Will they continue to receive as the law of their existence what is decreed by seven little lawyers down in Springfield?

Save These and Hand Them to Your Friends

8.—THE RISE OF THE WORKERS.

There is growing up within capitalism a class which is at everlasting enmity to the system within which it lives.

This class is peculiar to capitalism. It is the legitimate child of present society. That class is the working class.

At first this class does not recognize its antagonism to the capitalist class. The whole machinery of deception, that we have already described, operates to keep the workers from recognizing this antagonism.

But every time a laborer sells his labor power he is compelled to make a bargain for it. In that bargain he discovers that the capitalist is interested in getting as much surplus value as possible.

The worker, the seller of labor-power, on the other hand, wants high wages, short hours, and, in short, the reverse of all the things that the capitalist buyer of labor-power wishes.

The result is a struggle. At first the worker finds all his efforts hopeless, because the instant he asks for more than sufficient to maintain existence he is underbid in the sale of his labor-power by some one who is already at the point of desperation and must grasp at the first opportunity to dispose of his only salable commodity—his strength or skill—at whatever price will sustain life.

But the machine and the factory system built upon it has gathered together great industrial armies who are selling their labor-power to a common buyer. These men soon come to realize that they are bound together by a common antagonism to a common master.

They join together in trade unions determined to bargain, backed by the resistance power of all. They soon find they can make somewhat better bargains this way. They can shorten hours and raise wages to a considerable degree in a few trades.

But always there is a great mass for whom organization is almost impossible, for various reasons, and who gain little by trade union organization.

The trade union movement can do much, but it soon reaches its limits. It can do nothing with the problem of the unemployed. It can accomplish little against the progress of the machine, which sometimes wipes out whole trades, unions and all.

It is helpless to prevent every rise in wages being at once almost absorbed by a corresponding rise in prices, although this by no means constitutes an argument against high wages, since the worker always gains something by such a rise, at least temporarily.

While capitalism lasts, organization of labor is the only effective weapon with which to fight for better conditions, with the single exception of one vastly more powerful weapon, of which we are about to speak.

In every battle between organized labor and the capitalist it soon becomes evident that the capitalist possesses a tremendous advantage in his control of the governmental machinery.

The capitalist can, and does, call to his aid whenever he needs their service the judge with the injunction, the police with their clubs, the militia and standing army with their guns, and he at all times has the advantage of fighting within a governmental organization whose laws are made by legislative bodies under his control.

Sooner or later it begins to dawn upon the working class that this governmental power is the decisive factor in the battle which it is waging for better conditions.

The brighter and more far-seeing of the workers realize that it would be a good thing to have this government on their side.

From this point it does not require very much brains to reason to the next conclusion that this government is presented to the capitalists by working-class ballots at each election, and that there is no essential reason why laborers should not stop this and go voting for themselves.

When this point is reached they are not far from Socialism.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Edited by Marie Jayne

A Brave Woman

OUT in Denver, Colo., there is a woman physically helpless. For eight years she has not been able to stand. In her armchair she is wheeled from place to place.

This woman is Mrs. William Haywood. Over a year ago law and order when his turn came. The meeting came to a close, and the Socialists of Tillamook City went home, flushed with victory.

Next morning as I walked over to the postoffice for my mail I passed a group of men standing on the corner. In their midst was a farmer-looking man, holding forth in a high-pitched voice.

"Ah tell ye, the judge made a mighty fine talk, but the thing as deowned him was the Tallor 'ed."

When this point is reached they are not far from Socialism.

The Beauty Doctor

When one has been out in the wind and dust, it is never wise to wash the face in soap and water just after coming in. Instead, rub a good cold cream into the skin, and after a few minutes wipe it off with a soft cloth.

To have plump, soft hands, rub cold cream into every night and sleep in loose, old kid gloves, with the finger tips cut off so as to admit the air.

For obstinate freckles use a wash made as follows: Witch hazel, two ounces; bichloride of mercury in coarse powder, eight grains; rosewater, two ounces; then thoroughly dissolved apply several times during the day.

Take eight tablespoonful of grated cheese. Use left-overs. Eat at the whites of two eggs very stiff. When ready to serve mix eggs and cheese and make into four balls; fry in deep lard to a light brown. Have three leaves of head lettuce on each plate with French dressing. Put one cheese ball on each. Use one tablespoonful of dressing to each plate.

A variety of dress is easily obtained by the overbouse on jumper as shown above. It is suitable to wear with a lingerie or silk gumps. The original was a dark blue taffeta cut in one-piece tucks in front and back to five inches. The round neck is finished by a bias band of the material, with a hand-embroidered edge. The sleeves, which are an extension of the shoulders, are finished by a hand-embroidered scallop. The gumps is of the same material, the yoke and collar being cross-barred with ribbon and the sleeves are finished with a hand-embroidered cuff.

TO THE EDITOR

WAKING THEM WITH A PHONOGRAPH. The readers of the Socialist press in California, and in fact in general, are watching with interest the results of my efforts in trying to demonstrate the worth of Comrade Gaylord Wilshire's plan to use for general propaganda work, the Twentieth Century graphophone with the speeches of Comrades Debs, Washburne and Wilshire.

TO THE EDITOR. I never before had heard a Socialist speech. All the comrades who have witnessed the results are kind in their praise of the plan, and that it is a success can easily be determined by evidence from the capitalist papers and capitalist forces.
